BRIGHT COFFEE SHOP
ID's
Count the total number of product using count distinct () count the number of sales using count distinct() count the number of stores using count distinct()
Product ID
Transaction ID
Store ID
Date and Time
Extract the total sales per week
What day of month do we have highest sales.
Functions we can use in SQL; MONTHNAME() DAYNAME()
I can use the order by statement to sort the categories
I can use the case statement to group the time into time buckets.
Extract the day of week with most sales
Extract the month with highest and lowest sales
Extract the time of day with highest and lowest sales
EXTRACT THE TIME IT TAKES TO SERVE ONE CUSTOMER TRANSACTION DATE
TRANSACTION TIME
Categorical Data
Quantitative data
STORE LOCATION
PRODUCT CATEGORY
PRODUCT TYPE
PRODUCT DETAIL
Calculate store location by revenue extract which product category received the highest sales extract which product type generates the most or least revenue.
track the performance of product detail over time(trends)
calculate total units sold by product type or detail
UNIT PRICE
TRANSACTION QUANTITY
Use sum() to calculate total sales per day
Extract the price of each product calculate spend buckets using sum() unit price*transactio n quantity calculate revenue per day using sum(transaction qty * unit price extract how many transaction per day or month

Add from library

Add Miro Prototypes to scan from a screenshot

create schema
create a table
Databricks catalogue
Data processing: Use SQL to process the data,
Export the processed data to Excel.
Data Visualisation Excel for the presentation
BRIGHT COFFEE SHOP
Datasource Microsoft Excel CSV
data Ingestion
Store the processed data into Databricks catalogue.
Export data for deep dive analysis on Microsoft Excel
Visualize data on PowerBI for continuous reporting
DATA PRESENTATION IN CANVA